

Container

Appendices allows to situate research. As a nomadic practice it explores different fields. After the process is completed, a situated point of view is instantiated. This is done with the thesis corpus as well as with the artefacts of the research. The appendices contain source material, diagrams, free text and images, whether original or referential.